

Rockville Sold for $500 U.S. Dollars
Major Profit for Original Owner

MONTREAL (Aug.9, 2007) – Rockville, Maryland is the latest city to sell for a big profit as members race to accumulate cities, states, properties and celebrities at Weblo.com. The new Mayor purchased Rockville (which is located near Washington D.C.) for $500. The city was originally purchased for the minimum city price of $5 in 2006.

Weblo.com is the only parallel universe based on real properties, cities and states. Weblo has sparked a virtual real estate boom. California sold for $53,000 USD, New York State sold for $19,354 and now Rockville has sold for $400. Weblo.com has been compared to Second Life but that game is based on the sale of fantasy islands. Weblo is the only virtual world where every real city, state and property is for sale.

Major cites and properties around the world have sold and resold for profit.

The virtual mayor of Seattle sold his city for $2000 after buying it for $40 from Weblo. The virtual Empire State Building, originally purchased for one dollar re-sold for $250. Walt Disney World and Microsoft Headquarters both sold for $500 after being purchased for one dollar by the first owner. Members flip virtual properties for profit just like in the real world.

“It’s like Monopoly on steroids. Every property, city and state from the real world is for sale at Weblo.com,” says Rocky Mirza, CEO and co-founder of Weblo.com. “This is social networking with commerce, where members finally get paid for their popularity. Before Weblo.com only website founders and shareholders profited.”

Members attract traffic to their Weblo websites with compelling content including photo galleries, forums, polls and videos. Members profit from hits and advertising revenue generated from their sites. City and State owners earn a percentage of all transactions within their territories.
